Primary Location: Austria-Vienna-Vienna-IAEA Headquarters

Job Posting: 2018-04-12, 4:07:48 PM

Closing Date: 2018-05-27, 11:59:00 PM

Duration in Months: 36

Contract Type: Fixed Term - Regular

Organizational Setting

The Department of Management (MT) provides a 'platform of services' that serves as a foundation for the successful delivery of the IAEA's scientific and technical programmes. Its mission statement is as follows: "MT is a partner and a business enabler that champions change and efficiency, leveraging a common purpose". Thus, among other support activities, it assists a scientific manager in recruiting the right expert, helps a technical officer coordinate the purchase of radiation equipment, and ensures that all Board documents are translated and distributed on a timely basis to Member States.

One of the main functions assigned to the IAEA by its Statute is to foster the exchange of scientific and technical information and the dissemination of knowledge in the nuclear field among Member States. To facilitate the effective exchange and dissemination of information relevant to the IAEA's work and mandate, the Division of Conference and Document Services coordinates and supports the implementation of these activities for its users and clients, both internal and external, by organizing meetings and conferences, issuing documents in the six official IAEA languages, i.e. Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish, and editing, printing and distributing publications. The Russian Translation Section provides Russian translations of a broad range of documents and publications.

Main Purpose

As a member of a team led by the Section Head, the Translator translates a range of administrative, legal, economic, scientific and technical texts, particularly in the field of nuclear physics and engineering. The incumbent applies his/her analytical, linguistic and drafting skills to translating texts covering all aspects of the IAEA's activities.

Role

The Translator provides accurate, timely and stylistically appropriate translations of texts written mainly in English. The incumbent's translations are normally checked by a reviser before being finalized for distribution to Member States and/or members of the Secretariat.

Functions / Key Results Expected

- Translate, mainly from English into Russian, a broad range of administrative, legal, scientific and technical texts and to ensure that translations are equivalent in meaning and style to the original texts.
- Research points of terminology, language and subject matter to assist in the development of the central terminology database and reference archive.
- Perform any other duties normally carried out by the members of a translation section in an international organization.
